Why Abdul Majeed Hakim Praised India

Dr. Abdul Majeed Hakim Ilahi, representative in India of Iran’s Supreme Leader Ali Khamenei, praised India’s religious harmony, culture, and the loyalty of its people. He described India-Iran ties as 5,000 years old, rooted in deep cultural and spiritual connections. His statement gains significance amid rising tensions in West Asia.

Why India’s Model Stands Out Globally

India represents a society where multiple religions coexist peacefully. At a time when many parts of the world face religious conflict, India’s model of coexistence and mutual respect is seen as a strong global example.

“Unity in Diversity” as a Living Reality

In India, people from different religions—Hindu, Muslim, Sikh, Christian—live together and actively participate in each other’s festivals and social life. This proves that “unity in diversity” is not just a slogan, but a practical and visible reality.

Indian Constitution: Foundation of Harmony

India’s Constitution plays a crucial role in maintaining this balance. It ensures equality and prevents religious discrimination, making India a secular and inclusive nation where everyone has the freedom to live with their identity.

Articles 14 & 15: Equality and Non-Discrimination

Article 14 guarantees equality before the law, while Article 15 prohibits discrimination based on religion, caste, gender, or birthplace. These provisions build trust and fairness among different communities.

Article 25: Freedom of Religion

Article 25 provides every citizen the right to practice, profess, and propagate their religion freely. This safeguards India’s religious diversity and allows individuals to follow their faith without fear.

Articles 29–30: Protection of Culture and Identity

These articles protect the rights of minorities to preserve their language, culture, and educational institutions. This ensures that every community maintains its identity while contributing to the larger society.

India’s Role in Today’s Global Context

In a world facing rising intolerance, India offers a model of peaceful coexistence. Hakim’s remarks highlight that India’s system is increasingly being seen as a source of global inspiration.
